From a linguistic and medical point of view, it is more accurate to speak simply of psychological trauma, for which both psychological and psychiatric treatment may be required. However, as the respondent's pleadings refer in terms to 'psychological and psychiatric trauma', I shall utilise this description or a variant thereof where appropriate.

The Monk: A Romance is a Gothic novel by Matthew Gregory Lewis, published in 1796. A quickly written book from early in Lewis's career (in one letter he claimed to have written it in ten weeks, but other correspondence suggests that he had at least started it, or something similar, a couple of years earlier), it was published before he turned twenty.. It is a prime example of the male Gothic ...

On the subject of Billy Green, the scout, the submission above by David B. Clark, UE, includes this line [in the expended PDF biography]: "The fact that his brother Freeman had earlier brought information about the American encampment would have helped to establish Billy's credibility among the British officers." What a tease!

Bad teaching is a common explanation given for the disastrously inadequate public education received by America's most vulnerable populations. This is a myth. Aside from a few lemons who were notable for their rarity, the majority of teachers I worked with for nine years in New York City's public school system were dedicated, talented professionals.
